CORY YOUNG/Tulsa World

Todd Slankard

Funeral director and embalmer, Fitzgerald Funeral Service

Todd Slankard, a licensed funeral director and embalmer, has joined Fitzgerald Funeral Service.

Fitzgerald has two locations in Tulsa: Fitzgerald Ivy Chapel at 1402 S. Boulder Ave. and Fitzgerald Southwood Colonial Chapel at 3612 E. 91st St.

Slankard said he serves families from the time of death through final disposition of their loved one — he helps remove the deceased from the place of death, embalms and prepares the deceased, meets with the family for the arrangement of the funeral service, performs the funeral service and facilitates final disposition.

"It is my honor and privilege to serve families with dignity, respect and utmost compassion during the loss of a loved one," Slankard said. "I assist every family as if they were my own in guiding them through what is often the darkest days of their lives."

He formerly served with Floral Haven Funeral Home and Cemetery as a funeral director/embalmer for two years but said he desired to "assist families on a more personal level with an independent funeral home."

A native of Sand Springs, Slankard is a graduate of Charles Page High School. He earned an associate's degree in applied science from Tulsa Community College and graduated from the Dallas Institute of Funeral Service.

He is a former associate instructor for the Youthful Drunk Driving Program through the funeral industry in Tulsa and the Tulsa Metro Chamber.

Todd has three children — Blake, 17; Baylee, 15; and Brynlee, 9 — all attending Sand Springs Public Schools.
